In case you didn't know it, Avicii was a legit rap artist. The Swedish DJ and producer had done the rounds in the UK recently with his Summer With Avicii tour, and is also rumoured to have dropped a couple of tracks with Drake. According to the music website HipHopDX, Avicii helped to write a handful of songs on Drake's forthcoming A-level album, as well as having a hand in some of Drake's other new songs on the album. "The coolest song that Avicii and Drake wrote was the song in the album. It was called 'The Motto,'" according to a source quoted in the article. "Both of them wrote the song together," said the source. "It sounds really bad ass." There's still no word on a release date or any details about the album, but rest assured that Drake and Avicii are probably one of the most prolific partnerships in hip-hop right now. On September 25, Avicii released a music video for his remix of Drake's song "Hotline Bling" featuring Lil Wayne. A month later he co-headlined a six-night run of house parties called Desert Trip and was seen on stage with Rick Ross, Future and French Montana. Later that month he was given a lifetime achievement award at the Ibiza DJ Awards, and a 2d92ce491b
