What's New in the PDF Cutter?

PDF Cutter is an open source, flexible, and user-friendly PDF splitting tool. The tool is available to be used for free but it can be also very expensive for personal use if you need to extract several large documents from a single source file. The purpose of PDF cutter is to “cut” a PDF document into smaller chunks. All the extracted chunks are saved into a separate directory, with the actual output-specific file names based on their numeric position within the input file. The tool is very easy to use, efficient, and quite fast. It has three modes of operation: - Page range: This option is for extracting each page of a PDF file, and it will be saved as a separate PDF file. There is an option to choose the range of pages to extract. - Pages by page number: You can specify the number of pages to extract and the tool will go through the PDF file to extract them. - Page per page: It is similar to the first mode, but it will extract each page of the PDF file as a new PDF file. Unfortunately, if you have to do any file conversion or modification on the PDF file then the tool will not be very efficient. The program can process large documents fairly fast with high efficiency, and the output PDFs are always pristine and unmodified. PDF cutter is very easy to use. The interface is very simple to master, and you don't have to go through a lengthy setup process. You only need to have a working internet connection and to have downloaded the executable file of the tool on your desktop. The software simply requires you to click a button to start the process. You will be asked to enter the location of the input PDF file, the number of pages to extract, and the output directory. The output directory should be already created. You can also leave the settings to the default values, click the “Proceed” button, and it will process the input file accordingly. After the process is finished, you will see the extracted files on your desktop and they will all be listed in a neat folder. The folder will look like this: Once the files are generated, you will have many decisions to make. Most of these decisions are related to the output option. You can choose to create one PDF file for each page in the input file or make the output directory into a directory tree structure. There are a lot of possibilities, so you can freely choose the way you
