This email client comes with a few useful tools that could make your email experience much easier. Messages in a chat room There is no doubt that email is not as interactive as chat rooms. However, you still have a chat room inside your email client that helps you communicate with your online friends. You can have a chat room open for multiple contacts. There is also a single message view. You can have different conversations at a time, plus it comes with a message box for typing a new message. You can create a chat room by talking to your contacts, or just open an existing chat room and start typing. You can also go to a chat room by clicking on a specific link. Conversations with multiple friends You can organize conversations with your contacts by clicking on a specific link or typing them manually. There are a few groupings that you can pick from. You can also create multiple conversations to discuss multiple topics. Search mail You can search your mail in a conversation by typing in a word or an expression. When you find the one you want to save, you can send an email to yourself and copy the entire message. If you are looking for a quick access, a more personalized version of search is also available. POP3 mail The email client supports POP3 mail. You can check your mail in a simple interface without having to open multiple email clients. You can have multiple POP3 mail accounts. This could be an interesting option if you have several accounts that you check periodically. It supports both web and offline mail. This means that you can receive mail even if your network connection is down. You can access your mail from any device that has an Internet connection, as well as from offline. You can use a Windows Mobile device to check your email. You can have offline messages in your mail client. Email messages You can review all the messages and the messages of specific contacts. The program can be synchronized with a contact list in a Windows Mobile device. This means that you can have multiple contacts listed in a single conversation. You can find a
